Denise Sekaquaptewa

*Professor, Department of Psychology
University of Michigan*

Denise Sekaquaptewa, Ph.D., is Professor of Psychology at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. She also serves as Associate Director of the University of Michigan ADVANCE program. Dr. Sekaquaptewa received her undergraduate degree in psychology from Arizona State University and her master's and doctoral degrees from the Ohio State University. Her research in experimental social psychology focuses on stereotyping and intergroup dynamics, in particular how being in the numerical minority in terms of gender or race influences academic outcomes and experiences. The consequences of unintended stereotyping for intergroup behavior and individual performance in stereotyped domains are also a focus of her work. She has served as an Associate Editor for the journals Cultural Diversity and Ethnic Minority Psychology, and Personality and Social Psychology Bulletin.
